$42,000 Bond Election Slated For City Hall

By FRANCIS L. LLOYD

The city hall El Paseo building proposition will still go to the people in March—at a revised $42,000 figure for the bonds — it was decided at Wednesday afternoon's council meeting, in spite of clouds on the erstwhile clear horizon.

For clouds had appeared in the form of alternate suggestions from a former mayor, John B. Jordan, that the city purchase the two Devendorf lots north of the Library and build, or erect a city hall on the Plaza; from Percy Parkes, that the city purchase from him the Burnham building on Dolores just above Eighth; and revived talk of the "White Cedars" property on Dolores, outside the business zone, being used for a city hall site.

A further complication arose in the matter of alternative plans, when it was suggested by Heron that Architect C. Ryland's alternate plans be used at additional cost to the city, these plans to provide probably better renting advantages with the council chamber on a second floor to be built over the one-story north portion, leaving rental area free on the main floor. This would leave El Fumador and the beauty shop behind available for tenants, and also the now vacant northwest corner room.

Entire cost of such alterations was estimated by Ryland at $10,000, bringing the total cost to $42,000, instead of $37,000 as named last week.

The additional ependiture of $5000 for the second story, Mawdsley points out, would cost only an additional $400 per year, but would bring in an additional approximate $1000 per year income, making this a much more attractive proposition than the original $37,000 plan as prepared a week ago.

The resolution prepared by City Attorney W. L. Hudson, for an ordinance to call the bond election, was passed and the council will meet again next Tuesday at 5 p. m. to vote on the ordinance.

Tax Cost Analyzed

Cost to the taxpayer of such bonds was placed by City Auditor Peter Mawdsley at 9, or at most 10 cents in the tax rate, not counting differential in cost due to rentals now paid

Helen Ware Burt Career Is Over

The final curtain was rung down on the career of Helen Ware Burt, wife of Frederick Burt, in hospital in Carmel this week. Helen Ware, as she was known on stage and screen, died quietly on Wednesday morning of a throat infection. She was taken to the hospital in a critical condition on Monday.

Coming to Carmel many years ago, Helen Ware has resided here since 1931. In 1928 she came out to Hollywood to organize and direct the voice department for Fox.

Active in Carmel dramatics, in which she took a great interest, Mrs. Burt acted in "The Apostle of California", written by her friend, George Marion, and produced at Carmel Mission several years ago.

Angna Enters' Program Includes Many Favorites

When Angna Enters comes to Carmel next Monday she comes to, dance and mime a program of her finest and best-liked episodes. It is a program ranging from burlesque to the serious and in time from the 15th century to the present.

It will be as follows:

(1) American Ballet.; (2) Pique-Nique; (3) Little Sally Waters; (4) Queen of Heaven; (5) Aphrodisiac—Green Hour; (6) "Oh, the Pain of It." Intermission. (7) Vienna Provincial; (8) Piano Music No. 4 Commencement; (9) Auto de Fe; (10) Pavana; (11) Boy Cardinal; (12) Field Day.

The most famous of her compositions is probably the Boy Cardinal with its striking use of castinets. In the Queen of Heaven she uncannily gives life and substance to a Gothic Madonna. The Pavana is a conventional Spanish dance of the 16th Century, danced by a woman with the soul of a Borgia.

Those of her dances which are of contemporary times are mostly comic. "Oh, the Pain of It" is a burlesque of modern dancing and Field Day is a hilarious picture of an athletic young female done to Sousa's music.

It is a program which will show all sides of Angna Enters' genius and, as she likes to have it, give the audience "many a good laugh." Her appearance, which is the second offering of the Carmel Music Society for this year, will be at Sunset auditorium on Monday.

ANGNA ENTERS, FAMOUS DANCER

A Carmel audience will see Angna Enters, internationally famous dancemime, at Sunset Auditorium on Monday evening. The dancer is sponsored by the Carmel Music Society in the second presentation of their winter series.

"Kind Lady" Directed by McCarthy, on at Filmarte

"Kind Lady," three acts of errie mystery and suspense about a pack of human bloodhounds and a lonely old lady, opened with a cast of Carmel Players last evening, and will be seen tonight, tomorrow and Sunday evenings at the Filmarte theater. This will be the Players 14th major production and marks the return to Carmel of Director Chick McCarthy who has been away since August.

"Kind Lady's" mild title is a perfect red-herring drawn across a trail of violent and sinister machinations. The gentleness of the kind lady herself throws into more horrible relief the evil-doing of the wily crooks and nitwits who hem her in.

Had this stage-thriller been written by less able men than Hugh Walpole and Chodorov, its extraordinary happenings might fail to convince the audience. "Pleasant chills and creeps,' 'they might say, "first-class nightmare stuff"—and let it go at that. But, actually, all that occurs in "Kind Lady's" three compelling acts is realistic enough. It could occur, although you pray not to meet such goings on every day.

Strange Associations

The authors handle their startling material adroitly. Oddity after oddity of event and character is dumped into the terrifying pot-pourri, until by the close of the second act suspense is at breaking point . . . Mix one genteel old lady, many rare and saleable possessions, incautious kindness for every stranger out of luck, a smooth-tongued rogue, an enamored imbecile, a baby who "can't cry but wants to," a phoney invalid, a phoney doctor, a loyal but intimidated maid, a dark horse out of Australia who points unctiously to dark corners where you gather he did a murder or two, and what you will get is not pot-pourri, after all, but dynamite.

Walpole and Chodorov don't let you guess whether it will go off, either. Not before they are good and ready. You have to take it as they hand it out; and you will sit through to the end.

The excellent cast includes Marion Todd, Gordon Knoles, Jessie Joan Brown, Joseph Scelzi, and others in a first-string line-up.

The cast and stage assistants follow: Mr. Foster, Sam Colburn, Mary Herries, Marion Todd; Lucy Weston, Thelma Miller; Rose, Mollie Darling; Phyllis Glenning, Jessie Joan Brown; Peter Santard, Richard Carter; Henry, Abbott, Gordon Knoles; Ada, Georgeanna Good; Doctor, Ted Warren; Mr. Edwards,

Trustees of Sunset Are 'Unified'

Latest high school developments are that the Sunset trustees will go to Salinas today to be "unified" by County Superintendent of Schools James G. Force,—legally constituted a high school as well as elementary board—and that nine names have been suggested by members of the high school citizens committee for two appointive positions on the board. Originally only two names were suggested.

Suggested for the "unified" board of trustees are Mrs. Carl Rohr, Mrs. Ernest Morehouse, Mrs. Louis Levinson, E. H. Ewig, Mrs. Howard Walters, George Whitcomb and Alfred Matthews. Those previously suggested were Mrs. Helen Van Riper and Paul Whitman. No general meeting of the citizens committee of 30 members has been held, but from a "concensus" of members these names were among those most reportedly favored.

Frank N. Shea, Sunset trustee chairman, yesterday declared "everything is in status quo." A third school site, rumored recently, was reported still "possible."

Building Strike? No Permits Issued During January

Twenty-six days of the month of January passed yesterday without a single building permit being issued by Inspector B. W. Adams since the first of the year.

What's this? A home builders' strike in Carmel?

Apparently Carmel has begun to reach something like a "saturation point" and most of the new building is going up outside the city limits. Adams' office has nothing to do with building outside the incorporated areas.

Building outside has been going ahead quickly and two new major building jobs are planned for Carmel, one of them a fine new home near the sand dunes, another an apartment house on Lincoln street.

Infantile Paralysis Ball Tomorrow at Legion Hall

Neil Baggett's four-piece orchestra will play for the President's Birthday Ball at the American Legion tomorrow evening, beginning at 9:30, which is the climaxing event in the drive to raise funds for the national infantile paralysis war chest.

Capt. J. Shelburn Robison, in charge of the Carmel campaign of the "March of Dimes", reported this week that sale of tickets was going well and that voluntary contributions had begun pouring in to headquarters.

Assisting Capt. Robison is a committee composed of Mayor Herbert Heron, Dr. R. A. Kocher, C. W. Lee, Ed Ewig, Ross Miller, Walter Gaddum, Tommy Hooper, Henry Overin, Marian Shand, Nancy Cocke, Katherine Smitz, Beverly Tait and Patty Lou Elliott.

As the campaign nears the closing date, which is next Monday, Capt. Robison pointed out that contributions may be sent to Paralysis Fund, P. O. Box 1686, Carmel. A large number of tickets have been sent through the mails and returns may be made to this address.

Not only will dancing be in order tomorrow evening at the Legion Club of Carmel, but entertainment of a high order has been arranged. Among those who are providing their talent are Madeleine McDonogh, Carol Canoles, Rose Funchess and Bobby Brown, students of June Delight, Betty Rae Sutton and John and Mitzi Eaton.

Half of the funds raised locally will be sent to national headquarters and half put in a trust fund for a county chapter to be established during this year.

Edwards Manager at Wild Station

Jack Edwards, formerly associated with the Union Oil Company in the operation of their station at Sixth and San Carlos in Carmel and who recently joined the staff of the Wild Servicenter, has been advanced to manager of the service station department of Wilds'.

Among recent additions and promotions at the Wild Servicenter are those of E. A. Terrell to manager of the new and retread tire department, Jack Edwards to manager of the service station department, and Clayton Freeman as a new addition to the service station department. Terrell, for a number of years engaged in the manufacture of automobile tires, comes with an excellent background of technical experience as well as a long familiarity with Carmel and its special circumstances.

Recent additions to the new spick and span appearance of Carl Harris' Wild Servicenter are the new spotless white uniforms designed by Bob Moreland, who is directing the public relations policies of the Servicenter.

James Gearing of the mechanical department of Wild Servicenter has about finished his Wildbuilt midget racer and that accounts for the conclave of high school youths about the station these days. There is many an envious green eye on Jimmie's racer.

That pleasant new smile you see about Wild Servicenter these days belongs to Mrs. Benny Jacka, who has been given charge of the auditing functions at the garage. She is the first new office member to be installed following the general rehabilitating of the office quarters.

Colden Whitman II has been retained as art director responsible for the dressing up of Wild Servicentor advertising. Coming from a long line of artistic talent, Colden is expected to keep the advertising of the Wilds on a par with the rest of the services.

Wood, Metal Classes Offer Opportunity

Would you like to finish that jewel box, that picture frame, or that guest book? Does that fireside stool need repairing? Or would you like a copper firescreen like the one you admired?

Then—the place to fulfill all these wishes is the wood and art metal class at the Sunset school shop. This group meets at 7:15 each Monday evening under the able direction of Clayton Schuttish.

By the way, for those who are interested in clay modeling, Madame Marie Beygrau has a group meeting every Tuesday evening at 7:15 in the Sunset shop. It's lots of fun. Won't you join?

ACROSS WORLD'S FAIR LAGOON

A "marine" view such as might be obtained at a beautiful lake is the pleasant vista of the California State Building and colonnades at the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition. The view is that seen over the Lake of the Nations, which lies between one of the main exhibit palaces and the group of state and county structures.

To HELEN WARE

The curtain falls. Life's drama ended.

The affection of all who knew
And loved your loyalty of soul
Enshrine on the tablet of remembrance
A never to be forgotten memory
God rest thee, Helen Ware.

—GEORGE MARION.

Verona Hull on Mental Science

A series of educational lectures by Verona Hull, mental scientist and consultant in the field of life adjustment, will be given in Carmel at the La Ribera hotel, beginning Monday evening and continuing through Thursday evening. These meetings are under the auspices of the Life Building Institute, an educational movement in Oakland, and are free to the public. The hour is 8:30 p. m.

The talks will deal with the laws of life and the speaker will explain the inner meaning of the world crisis and give suggestions of how to meet the issues of the present day through the practice of creative thinking and the knowing of the Absolute Truth.

Miss Hull states that personal self-analysis and inner life adjustment are the only solutions to the problems of the individual and the world. Inner adjustment is the only real solvent for any stress. She says that failure, disease and unhappiness are red lights, a warning signal, telling us we need to look where we are going; we need to look deeper into causes within our mental life and make inner adjustment somewhere.

During the past two weeks Verona Hull has been holding a program of lectures, classes and professional services in Monterey at the San Carlos Hotel. She expects to form a local study group in Carmel and to offer a special service in mind harmonization, as well as to give professional work while she is here.

and rentals receivable from El Paseo building. This, Mawdsley said, could be reduced one cent every four to six years and the rental differential could account for another 5 cents, making the cost, under the most favorable conditions, 4 cents on the dollar assessed valuation during the first year.

Impatience at the late presentation of the most recent city hall suggestions of Jordan and Parkes, was expressed by Mayor Herbert Heron who pointed out that discussion of a new city hall had been going on already for some time.

Heron Favorable

In speaking for El Paseo building, Heron declared, "I have always felt El Paseo building was a fine bargain, although it is not exactly ideal for a Carmel city hall, and I don't feel that it can now be equalled for the price.

"For the first time in the history of Carmel, a city hall plan has received some measure of public approval," Heron added.

Byington Ford, as agent for the Doulton estate, who submitted El Paseo building to the city for $32,000, with a $3000 rebate on the original price of $35,000 to allow for alterations, was present but had little to say during the lengthy discussion of what the council should do in the present situation.

In the end it was decided that the best way to clear the air would be to hold the bond election and then, if the electorate fails to pass the bonds by a two-thirds majority, as required, bring in some other proposition, more than likely one to build a city hall on some other favored site.

Matter for Voters

As in the high school controversy, the question was raised as to just how many details the electorate be called upon to decide by vote and how many should be left to the elected representatives. In the city hall matter, however, it is up to the people because of the limitation placed by law upon the amount of money which a council may spend.

The subject of "education" of the public on the city hall proposition and the need of the city for a place for safekeeping important city documents was mentioned, and also a "straw" vote through the press. Such a vote was shouted down as impracticable and non-conclusive.

Points Out Necessity

Ford stated the necessity for safe and adequate city quarters and said in support of El Paseo building, "I don't think as good a proposition could be made at the present time."

The proposition as made in mid-December by Ford outlined the purchase of El Paseo building over a 20-year period, as since worked out by Hudson on a bond issue basis and found to tally closely, showed that purchase of El Paseo building would actually cost but little, inasmuch as city rentals now paid out, under a most favorable situation, and rentals receivable for various stores in the building would leave only a minor balance to be made up by the city. In Ford's original estimates this difference came to less than $500 per year, when interest, payment on principal, and various operation costs had been figured.

Advance in the alteration cost from $3000, as estimated by Ford, to $5,000, as first figured by Ryland, and since raised to $10,000 under a revised architect's estimate based on amplified alterations, would increase the total cost of $35,000, originally quoted by Ford, to $42,000, as now considered.

Jordan's suggestion was made personally and included plans for a "$20,000" city hall to be built on any site the city might favor, and the Burnham building on Dolores between Seventh and Eighth for $15,000, proposed by Parkes. Councilmen mentioned that this building had been considered previously and found hardly suitable. The two Devendorf lots and improvements were said to be obtainable for $6000 or less.

Referring to the present "unfit" city hall quarters and the fire hazard to city records, Councilman Frederick R. Bechdolt declared, "The situation regarding records is one which previous city administrations have failed to meet. Many thousands of dollars' worth of unprotected records might be destroyed."

Diphtheria Test for Sunset

Tentative arrangements have been made to carry out a public health program at Sunset school which will include a Schick test for every pupil, provided parents are willing, which will indicate whether the subject is susceptible to diphtheria which has been of common occurrence in Monterey during the past few months and not without fatalities.

The test will be made during February or March by Dr. Dwight M. Bissell, county health officer, who is cooperating with the school in combatting diphtheria. Positive results indicate the necessity for innoculation against the childhood disease. Already many Sunset pupils have been protected against diphtheria by this simple precaution. This may be provided free for those children requiring financial aid.

Of more immediate attention at Sunset is the dental survey in which every Carmel dentist is contributing his assistance. This survey will show where school children require dental care. The survey will begin on Feb. 6.

Plans for a health meeting under auspices of the Parent-Teachers' association are also being made, it is understood.

Mrs. Burt was born in San Francisco, the daughter of John August Remer, who was the architect for the old Baldwin theater in that city. As a young girl, her family went back East and she made her stage debut at the age of 22 with Maude Adams in "The Little Minister."

She later appeared in "An American Gentleman," "Under Two Flags," "Quo Vadis," et cetera. She played Celia in "The Kreutzer Sonata," and Emma Brooks in "Paid in Full" and "The Third Degree" in 1908 and 1909 at the Hudson Theater in New York. She was in "The Price" in 1911, "The Escape" in 1913, "The Celebrated Case" in 1915, and with the all-star Red Cross tour in "Out There" in 1917.

Co-starred with Lou Tellegen in 1919, Mrs. Burt played in "The Wandering Jew," "The Wasp," "The Fascinating Devil," "Thou Desperate Pilot" until 1927. Since then she has been active in motion pictures.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Olive Sibley of San Francisco and Mrs. T. I. Hadden of White Plains, N. Y., and two brothers, Jack Remer and Richard Remer, the latter once an Olympic walking champion.

Funeral services today will be private. Friends are asked to omit flowers.

Elsa Maxwell Is Returning

Elsa Maxwell, a famous daughter of the Golden State who has given parties by command of royalty, will give just such a party for Carmelites and visitors to the peninsula at Del Monte Lodge on the evening of Sunday, Feb. 12.

So announces Kit Whitman, who will bring Elsa Maxwell back to Carmel. She was here four years ago, privately, as the guest of the Sidney Fishes, and has ever since hankered to return here.

Mrs. Whitman recently arranged for Elsa Maxwell's appearance here, and party throwing, while the gentle impressaria of big time enjoyment, was giving an affair for the Douglas Fairbanks in Hollywood.

The party will begin with a dinner at the Lodge, followed by a chat by the official hostess and dancing after 9 o'clock. The "party" will cost $3, the dinner $2, rates which Mrs. Whitman points out are especially reduced through the hostess' desire to come down to the peninsula for a visit.

International society has attended affairs given by Miss Maxwell and high fees have gladly been paid for her services and the party here is to be regarded as something both unusual and a bargain.

BLANDING COLUMN OVER TO NEXT WEEK

"Through a Window in Vagabond's House", weekly column by Don Blanding, unfortunately failed to reach Carmel in time for this week's Pine Cone. Blanding, poet of Hawaii, is now on tour in the East.

Mission Music Group Is Formed

Carmel has a new music society, the San Carlos Music Society, formed with a nucleus of active musicians who meet weekly at the Carmel Mission on Tuesday evenings.

At an organization meeting this week, they elected Mrs. Angela Reilly president, Noel Sullivan vice-president and Carl Bensberg secretary-treasurer.

George Marion, who wrote and directed the Mission Play of last summer, has volunteered his assistance in producing light opera, a possible objective of the group.

First presentation, however, will be "A Night in Italy", with favorite Italian songs and the Tarantella dance.

Everyone interested in joining this activity is cordially invited by the San Carlos Music Society. They should telephone any of the officers before attending rehearsals.

Christmas Seal Sale Brings In $3458

This week's meeting of the Monterey County Tuberculosis Association heard that the sale of Christmas Seals had brought in a gross of $3458, the largest amount ever raised for this purpose in the county. The amount, however, was regarded as somewhat short of that required to carry out the complete proposed program.

Miss Agnes Clancy, field nurse, has been re-employed, it was announced, until July 1 to take charge of follow-up work and care of tuberculosis cases.

Election of officers was put over to the March meeting. O. W. Bardarson, president, was in the chair at the meeting which was held at the Cominos Hotel in Salinas.

Victim of Stabbing, "Redwing" Is Home

"Knifing victim may live" is a headline Andrew Gomez, better known in Carmel and Monterey as "Redwing," may chuckle over as he keeps house in the little Tortilla Flat home he shared with Jose Eturra.

It was in the same little home that ten days ago, Gomez and Eturra quarreled, according to Redwing's own account. He was stabbed and Eturra later picked up by Carmel police and sent to the county jail to await court action.

Gomez, treated first at the Community hospital and then kept for observation at the county hospital in Salinas for a few days, returned home last week-end practically cured. A scar on his chest will testify to the knifing scrape.

David Hagemeyer, Jean Crouch Heard In San Jose Recital

Two residents of Carmel, David Hagemeyer and eJan Crouch, both students at San Jose State College, participated last week in a studio recital, the first of a series of such musical programs to be presented by advanced students of the college.

Hagemeyer is a senior student at San Jose State who is majoring in social science. Jean Crouch, a junior, is a music major.

ALL THAT SMOKE! JUST PRUNING FIRES

Residents of Carmel were mystified on Wednesday afternoon when a heavy cloud of smoke blew across the city and tinted the afternoon sun a murky red. Those who bothered to check on the source of the smoke discovered it came from up the valley where orchardists are burning prunings in the pear orchards east of the Canada de la Segundo on the Meadows, Stewart, Schulte, Berwick and other orchards.

A PAIR OF SPECTACLES

While walking on the beach,
At Carmel-by-the-Sea
I saw a pair of spectacles,
Looking up at me.

They seemed so sad and lonely,
Lying there upon the sand,
I picked them up,
And held them in my hand.

They were gold-rimmed spectacles,
Not ordinary glasses they;
I wonder who had lost them;
A mystery, I should say.

One lens was missing from the frame
Which made them look forlorn,
Perhaps some gentleman of age,
Had once these glasses worn.

If they belonged to some poor soul,
Who lost his life at sea,
What tragic tale could they not tell,
Of ships and storms that be.

If dropped by some one carelessly
While walking on the beach
I would return those "specs" to them
If their person, I could reach.

—C. C. SMITH, Carmel.

Note: The owner of the spectacles found by Mr. Smith at the beach may have same by proving ownership at Pine Cone office.

Grizzly Bear Seen As Gentle Creature

Interesting sidelights in California's extinct grizzly bear, which tend to show the male at least in a very good light, have just been published by Professor Joseph Grinnell, director of the Museum of Vertebrate Zoology at the University of California. No less an authority than Vital Cayton Reche, whose father founded Fallbrook, San Diego county, in 1869, states that he met the great bear often while riding range on his father's holdings and elsewhere.

If the observer stood still and made no aggressive move, the male bear invariably would rise on its haunches, after the fashion of a picket-pin ground squirrel, and look intently at the intruder. After watching awhile it would shake its head from side to side, as though deciding against an attack, drop on all fours and start running away, according to Reche's account as described by Professor Grinnell.

But the white man evidently did not accept the male grizzly's offer of peace, nor fear the much more aggressive attitude of the female. According to Dr. Grinnell's chronicle a certain George Nidever shot 45 grizzlies in the year 1837 alone, in the vicinity of San Luis Obispo. Altogether during his wanderings up and down the coast he thought he had killed upwards of 200 grizzlies. Judging from the tone of the record he left behind him, he shot the bear for the most part just to show what a good marksman he was. At the time there was no sale for the skins and no one took the trouble to remove them. The hunter just let the bear lay.

Some vaqueros delighted in capturing the bears alive, to use them in fights with bulls. This sport flourished at one time in California.

Post Office Keys Should be Returned

On large posters in the lobby of the Carmel post office, Postmaster Irene Cator calls attention to the refunding of deposits on post office box keys of former quarters, Dolores street, and gives notice to present keys for redemption within 30 days from date of posting, Jan. 11.

Legion Will Hear Pieper of G-Men

Guest of the Carmel post of the American Legion for an informal talk here Feb. 7 will be N. J. L. Pieper, chief of the San Francisco field division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Pieper, only 30 years of age, was once administrative assistant to J. Edgar Hoover, G-man head.

CHATTER COLUMN

Worthy of repetition is the following poem which Earle Ennis, of the San Francisco Chronicle, picked up. Like Walter Winchell, who has been carrying the peace message on the radio, Ennis comments upon the poem in his column "Smoke Rings" as follows:

"'Let the forces of light bring illumination to mankind;
Let the spirit of peace be abroad;
May men of good-will, everywhere
Join in the spirit of cooperation.
Let the spirit of forgiveness be invoked by men
Everywhere, one toward the other.
Let power attend the efforts of
The great servers of humanity."

"This little prayer, invocation, mantrum—call it what you will—pronounced by thousands of sincere, earnest people all over the civilized world these past weeks when the tread of marching men forecast a coming Armaggedon has done its mighty bit toward the stabilization of world peace.

"Odd, how the little things sometimes accomplish the most when a big issue swings in the balance. Whence came the prayer? Who knows? One day it is unknown, unheard. The next, it is on the lips of thousands. As a catchy tune sets the feet of a nation to shuffling so does a prayer set a million hearts to beating in rhythm. Out of that rhythm may come a renewed hope that is stronger than the plans of politicians or the programs of dictators."

Edith Anderson's Soprano Is Enjoyed In Song Recital

Those who heard Edith Anderson's dramatic soprano voice at last Saturday evening's recital at the Filmarte theater can well look forward to her future appearances in the Bach Festival to which she gave such quality of voice last summer, especially in the light of her rendition of the "Erikoenig."

The "Erikoenig," which Schubert wrote as an innovation, inasmuch as it is half song and half drama. Uusually sung by a contralto or male voice, Mrs. Anderson's soprano handled this number adequately.

Possibly the best of Mrs. Anderson's program was "Songs My Mother Taught Me", always a warm and welcome piece, which she sang well nigh to perfection.

Her wide choice of composers for her program showed no weakness, as Mrs. Anderson proved herself equal to all without shrinking. Her powerful soprano was not dismayed by any of the liberal range of songs from Schubert's "Erikoenig" with its pathetic "Mein Vater, o Mein Vater" and "das Kind war Todt!" to his "Forelle" and Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me", through Loewe, Brahms, Von Weber and Strauss.

Rather than unevenness, there was a posisble lack of differentiation between these varying types of music.

However, Edith Anderson pleased a large audience and gave liberally of encores and a concensus of opinion following the concert was that she had progressed greatly under the able tuition of Mabel Riegelman of San Francisco, with a sterling background in song by the late Madame Borghild Janson of Carmel.

Gladys Steele accompanied and held in good restraint her piano, proving at once both a good and an enthusiastic accompanist.

DOG FEE DEADLINE

The deadline for licensing dogs is Jan. 31, according to Carmel city ordinance. Licenses may be obtained from the Monterey County Humane Society, Walton Bennett on the society's truck, or from T. J. Christian Science

In all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, Jan. 29, on the subject "Love."

The Golden Text will be: "How excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings" (Ps. 36: 7). Bible selections will include the following passage from I Corinthians 13: 11-13. "When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things. For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known. And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "Love for God and man is the true incentive in both healing and teaching . . . Love is priestess at the altar of Truth. Wait patiently for divine Love to move upon the waters of mortal mind, and form the perfect concept" (p. 454).

Grand Jury Suggests Telephone Franchise, Bigger Judge's Pay

The retiring 1938 Grand Jury brought in recommendations recently that ranged from increasing the salary of the superior judge from $8000 to $9000 per year to a supervisorial inquiry into the operation of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company in Monterey county without a franchise.

More careful accounting of departmental receipts and funds and no mixing of county and personal funds of county officials and employes were recommended as well as extension of the sheriff's radio broadcasting unit to include remote control stations for the Salinas and Monterey police departments and the Monterey unit of the California Highway Patrol.

Full consideration of the sheriff's plan by the supervisors was suggested for establishing a road or work camp for county jail prisoners, both to relieve congestion in the jail and for the more forceful punishment of some of the inmates and for better health provision.

With regard to old age payments, the jury advocated increasing aid to total invalids, but that the present $3000 assessed valuation limit on real property owned by old age security recipients be reduced to a maximum of $1500 as formerly and be limited to home property, and the former lien requirements be re-established.

Members of the jury from the peninsula included W. E. Martin, Carmel Valley; B. H. Schulte, Carmel Valley; J. D. Thorn, Jr., Monterey; Carl A. Batchelder, Pebble Beach; W. F. Buttle, Pacific Grove; Roland H. Gregory, Pacific Grove; Charles B. Olmsted, Pacific Grove. The report was signed by Leo Maller, foreman, and John P. Dolan, secretary.

Garden and Book Groups to Meet

Because the first of February falls on Wednesday, two section meetings of Carmel Woman's Club will precede the monthly general meeting which usually begins the month's activities. The schedule for next week will begin with the meeting of the book section on Wednesday morning at 10:30. The chairman, Miss Edith Griffin, has announced that Mrs. Margaret F. Grant will be the speaker. Mrs. Grant has been considering several different books for discussion, and will announce her topic at the meeting. No less at home as a book reviewer than as a speaker on current events, Mrs. Grant customarily uses a specific book as a point of departure rather than as a subject for close analysis, and so makes her discussion of books a creative work on her own account. This meeting will be held at Pine Inn.

The meeting of the garden section, Thursday morning at 10:30, will be held at Gordon Lloyd's experimental garden on Raymond Road, a continuation of Forest avenue. Mrs. F. W. Clampett is arranging transportation of members. The subject will be "Seeds", and Mr. Lloyd will give a demonstration of the preparation and planting of seed beds.

The following Monday, Feb. 6, the monthly general program will be presented by R. J. Gale. His topic will be "Building a Personal Philosophy Through Literature." As a result of the series of talks he has given this year and last at Sunset school for adult groups, Mr. Gale is in growing demand as a speaker. He appeared recently on a program of Salinas Woman's Club. The program will begin at 2:30, following a club luncheon at Pine Inn at 1 o'clock. Advance reservations are to be made at Pine Inn.

Sewage Disposal Plant Now Almost a Reality

Carmel's sewage disposal plant, a modern plant for handling the sewage and reducing it to elements of nitrogen, carbon dioxide, pure water, et cetera, is all but a reality—in the concrete, so to speak.

Bids have been called for Feb. 3, the contract will be awarded Feb. 7 and published, and the contract signed Feb. 21, after acceptance by the Public Works Administration, according to Bernard Rowntree's calendar of coming events.

The estimated cost is $100,000, of which the PWA grant takes care of 45 per cent, the property owners of the district the remaining $55,000.

The site is the "island" in Carmel river to which a right-of-way along a protecting levee has been built. Work at the site was begun just before the end of 1938 to meet technical requirements of the PWA.

Resolutions ordering extensions of the present sewer system to include Hatton Fields north of Ocean avenue was adopted at last week's meeting of the Carmel Sanitary Board. Carmel Woods is expected to be the next area to avail itself of the sewage plant facilities.

Plans and specifications for the sewage disposal plant were drawn up by Clyde C. Kenendy and recently approved by the San Francisco PWA office.

Hatton Fields bids are also called for Feb. 3, and may be awarded immediately, it is indicated.

CHANGE AIR SCHEDULE

Sea Otters Are Migrating Southward, Very Slowly

You can still see the "extinct" California sea otters, the greatest little fur-bearing animals in the whole wide world, in a little cove just north of Rainbow Headlands. So Officer Charles Mayfield of the California Fish and Game commission reported this week.

He also reported that the sea otters are migrating southward again, probably in search of richer fishing grounds where they feed on the luscious abalone and other shell fish which they tear from the ocean bottom and then roll over on their backs to eat.

For a while the otters gathered near old Knotley's Landing, abandoned cove where coastal lumber and supply schooners used to anchor to load products of the Santa Lucia mountains and unload supplies, and made their headquarters there where huge storm seas failed to scare them far from the beetling cliffs.

May Vanish Again

But now they are again on the move, going slowly, very slowly, southward. If the trek is maintained there is some possibility of their moving back to the more remote parts of the coast where they must for years have been reproducing to the numbers in which they are found today—all the while being thought extinct.

The fur of the sea otters, according to a publication of the Hudson's Bay Company, leading fur traders and authorities in the world, is classed as "precious." The account states: "The coat of the sea otter is of great beauty, and, unlike other aquatic animals, the skin needs no process of unhairing. The fur is of a rich, dense, silky wool, with the softest and shorest of water hairs; the colors vary from pale grey-brown to a rich black, and many have a sprinkling of silvery white hairs. The blacker the wool and the more regular the silver points, the more valuable the skin. In China the fur is used to trim the State robes of the Mandarins."

Intelligent Animal

It is also related that "The otter is one of the most intelligent of the weasel family, and might well survive after related species had disappeared, were it not for the attractions of its fur."

The Indians and Eskimo, brought to this coast by the Russians, hunted the sea otter savagely for many years and practically wiped out this interesting and valuable species. The hunters were brought in the fur trading ships and along with them they brought their kayaks in which they combed every cove for the otter. The furs were shipped to China and returned great wealth to the Russian fur traders.

United East and West

It was during the sea otter hunting days that Fort Ross, in Sonoma, was built, the last of the chain of Russian communities that stretched down from the Aleutians in America. It is remarkable that in Sonoma county, where Fort Ross presides over the Pacific, the otter helped bring together Catholic and Orthodox Greek Catholic religions, after circling the globe from east and west.

Realizing the value of the few surviving sea otters and the danger of careless or illegal hunting and shooting of the animals, the California Fish and Game Commission has maintained a constant patrol of the otters down the coast and warned the public repeatedly of the heavy penalties for taking them.

NEW SCHOOL AND PUBLIC HEALTH PROGRAM BEGUN IN THIS COUNTY

In previewing the work for the coming year the broad aspects of public health should be considered. To many people the field of public health is not definite. Public health aims to prevent disease and therefore limit its spread. A more positive aim of Monterey county health department is to promote health through education, sanitation and other such activities and by these means prolong mental and physical efficiency. All of these activities can be accomplished only through organized community effort which is available through private medical service, clinical medical service, and other existing agenies.

Public health activities are generally grouped into eight divisions: Communicable disease, including tuberculosis and venereal diseases; infant and well baby care; pre-school and school hygiene; maternal hygiene, including prenatal care and postnatal care; general sanitation, including water supplies, excreta disposal and sewer connections; protection of food and milk; vital statistics, including mortality and morbidity; laboratory service, including bacteriological service and serological service.

In communicable disease the health department, by working through the schools, is able to find the children who are ill and isolate them. A follow-up worker on tuberculosis and venereal diseases has been able to discover many people with these diseases who would otherwise have not been found until it was too late to help them. For this reason during recent years almost twice the number of cases of tuberculosis and venereal diseases have been reported. Records show that more than 100 per cent increase in reporting these cases is due to the fact that many new persons have been discovered who may have had one of the diseases for years. This work will be continued during 1939.

"Well Baby" clinics attempt to give advice to mothers concerning means of keeping the baby well. No sick babies are allowed at these clinics. The baby is weighed, measured, advice as to feeding is given, and habit training is stressed.

A great deal of time is spent in school health because it is during these formative years that the greatest amount of benefit can be given in health habit formation, adequate diet, immunization, vaccination, and in early discovery of disease, as tuberculosis. Many of these children will be cared for through their private family physician. For those who are unable to pay it is hoped that private physicians will continue to contribute their time and efforts to this worthwhile work. Each child should be given a physical examination before he starts to school. If it is at all possible, he should be reexamined twice during his elementary school years and once while in high school.

The county milk inspector and sanitary inspectors will insure the safety of our milk, food and water by careful and frequent watch over their production and sale. Sanitary excreta and garbage disposal are essential to prevent disease and secure clean food.

In all of these services the public is dependent on bacteriological and serological tests to confirm diagnosis. In addition the public health laboratory will serve those patients who are unable to pay a clinical laboratory for these services.

With the New Year of 1939 and public backing and support, the county department hopes to have a part in bringing more health and happiness to Monterey county.

Art Association invited to Send Complete Exhibit

The February showing of the Carmel Art Association, which will be the first to be hung in the new Dolores street gallery, may probably again be seen in March in the Oliver and Sammons gallery in Oakland, according to Grant Oliver, who was in Carmel this week on a scouting expedition for talent.

Oliver is inviting the Art Association to send up the complete February show to be hung during March at his gallery, now completely modernized.

The Art Association's show for next month is being assembled this week and next with the idea of having an unusually good exhibit with which to inaugurate the new gallery which was built under the direction of Clay Otto and is now practically complete.

The invitation to send the entire show to Oakland to hang during the time of the opening of the San Francisco International Exposition is a welcome one. Grant Oliver is also extending an invitation to all Art Association member-artists to hang one-man exhibits, for which there is no charge.

THE CITY HALL

Just when Byington Ford had lined up the press, the city council and a probable majority of the citizens to favor the purchase of the El Paseo building for a city hall, along comes John Jordan to spoil things, or at least to inject another idea into proceedings.

Jordan says that it isn't he alone who has introduced the discordant note, but the plans for a little city hall all by itself on its own little plot of land are in Jordan's hands and he claims responsibility for them. So there'll be a fight over this matter too. However this is one time when this newspaper does not feel called upon to take the field, believing rather that we can do more by fairly presenting to the public the case for both sides.

If we felt that we had to set out and campaign for a city hall we would immediately do so, but we are assuming that the public wants a city hall. Where and at what cost is entirely up to the people.

Much has been said about the cost of El Paseo building plus its remodeling, and before election time more will be written.

It is of the counter proposition to El Paseo that we will speak. According to John Jordan, a small city hall about 70 x 80 feet could be built on property of the same area as the El Paseo building. He states that there are several available sites in and around the business district, mentioning the northeast corner of Lincoln and Sixth streets, or again, to save more money, part of the city park. The figures for this construction would not exceed $25,000, which would represent quite a saving to the taxpayer.

However, it has been pointed out that although the El Paseo building might cost $40,000, part of the building not needed for city purposes is rentable, which would take care of the added cost over and above the $25,000 figure.

There is one thing we can't help remembering concerning buying a ready-built building as opposed to building one ourselves and that is what Perry Newberry said, "at least we know what our city hall is going to look like ahead of time."

TAXI LAW IN EFFECT

The so-called Taxi Ordinance goes into effect today and brings under police supervision the drivers employed by taxi firms in Carmel. With the World's Fair year on our hands, this ordinance is of immediate value, inasmuch as Carmel, along with the cities and resort towns of this part of California, will have its share of undesirable as well as desirable visitors. Many of the Los Angeles mobsters, petty or otherwise, will accompany the horde in this direction and the Taxi Ordinance should make the policing job easier than it might otherwise be.

Fingerprinting and checking of records of local taxi drivers, many of whom come to Carmel from elsewhere without any reference but their faces, is important in a community where trust of your fellow man is the rule rather than the exception. Where there are so many retired people, elderly persons, especially women, frequently depending upon the trustworthy nature of the driver.

The ordinance, besides requiring police licensing and supervision, provides: that a driver shall not have been convicted of any of the following offenses: Reckless driving or driving while under the influence of liquor or narcotics; pandering; using, possessing, selling or transporting narcotics or intoxicating liquors; imparting knowledge for the obtaining of narcotics or liquor; assault and battery; any law involving moral turpitude.

Guaranteeing the "purity" of Carmel's taxi drivers may sound "funny", but, when it all boils down, it really isn't. It is very necessary.

SHIVA

There is a hawk that is picking the birds out of our sky.
She killed the pigeons of peace and security,
She has taken honesty and confidence from nations and men,
She is hunting the lonely heron of liberty,
She loads the arts with nonsense, she is very cunning,
Science with dreams and the state with powers to catch them at last.
Nothing will escape her at last, flying nor running.
This is the hawk that picks out the stars' eyes.
This is the only hunter that will ever catch the wild swan,
The prey she will take last is the wild white swan of the beauty of things.
Then she will be alone, pure destruction, achieved and supreme.
Empty darkness under the death-tent wings.
She will build a nest of the swan's bones and hatch a new brood,
Hang new heavens with new birds, all be renewed.

Love me no more, now let the god depart
If love be grown so bitter to your tongue!
Here is my hand; I bid you from my heart
Fare well, fare very well, be always young.
As for myself, mine was a deeper drouth.
I drank and thirsted still; but I surmise
My kisses now are sand against your mouth,
Teeth in your palm and pennies on your eyes.
Speak but one cruel word, to shame my tears;
Go, but in going, stiffen up my back
To meet the yelping of the mustering years—
Dim trotting shapes that seldom will attack
Two with a light who match their steps and sing:
To one alone and lost, another thing.

IT'S FINAL NOW

Although no one really expected anything else, the call for bids for construction of the sewage disposal plant for Carmel comes as welcome news. For the past several years while the sanitary board has been laying the groundwork for building a modern type of treatment and disposal system, there has been a certain amount of opposition, not much, it is true, but enough to cause annoyance and some delay.

According to many people who have been connected with this project, the publication of the call for bids is regarded as one of the most important stories ever to break in Carmel. And in the light of the results that are a certainty from the type of disposal plant to be constructed, the commencing of work is important, especially as its completion concerns the health and welfare of every resident.

This call for construction bids removes the word "proposed" from any discussion concerning this PWA job. It will be only a matter of weeks until some contractor moves his equipment on to the island and men go to work.

For the members of the Sanitary Board this step marks the completion of over four years of hard work coupled with about as much brief and legal red tape as any group has ever had to wade through toward the starting of any one construction job in Carmel.

RE POLICE RADIO

Delay in obtaining for Carmel full police radio protection should be avoided. That a police radio is essential for Carmel has been thoroughly discussed and deemed correct. Also the right proposition has been made and an economical purchase arranged so that Carmel may have a separate radio for the use of the police department.

At the same time, the Grand Jury has advised enlarged police radio communication for the county, including the Monterey and Salinas areas, and for the California highway patrol. It would be excellent if Carmel could be included in such a major plan and our cooperation should be welcomed by the other law enforcement agencies. While Carmel has usually been the objector in the past to such cooperative efforts between the peninsula communities, this is one time when Carmel is glad to join, provided assurance of mutual and equitable cooperation is given, in an effort to make this peninsula "crime-tight."

Whether such a peninsula-wide program could be arranged is yet to be determined. Meanwhile Carmel's police department should not hesitate in obtaining a local radio communication system for the more complete control of the village during what promises to be an unprecedented season.

"INDIVIDUALISM WINS"

Recent events in this village are receiving notice in the outside world, notably in the editorial columns of the San Jose Mercury-Herald, in the following editorial entitled "Individualism Wins":

"Carmel, the individualistic art colony of Monterey peninsula, has just held an election and voted 547 to 118, to establish a high school district and a high school of its own. Withdrawing from the Monterey union high school district and later approving a $165,000 bond issue for a high school building, Carmel sets up still higher the intangible barriers against outside domination.

"It may battle the 'commonplace conveniences' of paved streets, house numbers and mail delivery—as it has in the past—and retain its suburban, 'arty' aloofness from bromidian invasion, but it wants 'the best' for its children, and the opportunity of supervising their studies and associates.

"Carmel's discontent has found echoes in other areas which are contemplating secession movements. These, if carried out, will disastrously affect the finances for maintaining Monterey's union high school, and reduce its area, which now covers a strip of territory 105 miles long. Maybe these districts have some reason for seceding—who would want to send their children to and from high school, every day, 105 miles from home?"

WE'LL MISS THE FERRY

You can still go for a ferry ride on San Francisco Bay, but it won't be to Oakland or Sausalito. The San Francisco Chonicle put it correctly in a headline this week: "An Era Dies." That is the way we feel. When the ferries go it is like saying goodbye to an old friend for the last time. Almost everyone in Carmel has ridden on the ferry, the most distinctive ferry in America, and the farewell to the ferries brings a feeling of sadness to all. What will the speed and bustle of rushing over a bridge in a train give that will make up for the dignity and pleasure of the ferry ride, no matter how convenient the speedier transportation may be.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

Richard Boke, son of Mrs. George Boke of Carmel, and brother of Mrs. Marion Todd, who recently visited his old home with his wife, Sally, and their two small children, who bear their parents given names, is now in Hollywood.

Dick Boke is there to prepare for filming of a moving picture along similar lines to "The River", revealing the work of the federal soil conservation service. Young Boke has been with the Federal department for several years, covering the states of New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada and Colorado.

Some years ago he and his wife bought a high knoll overlooking the original Castro ranch and the Pacific Ocean, a few miles south of Pfeiffers, and they now are anxious to build there.

Sally Boke is a member of an old northern California family which owns the large Shafter ranch at Inverness, on Point Reyes.

Death of Mrs. Milton S. Latham, a great beauty in her day, at the age of 92 in San Francisco, this week caused Milt and Sade Latham a great deal of explaining that there was no connection. Sade said: "You may say I'm very much alive, thank you," and prepared to receive the flowers.

Carmelites noticed in last week's Collier's a short short story by Henry Meade Williams, son of Mrs. Jesse Lynch Williams. The story, "Unlawful Entry", made quite a hit with the publishers and a series of Williams' stories are expected in Collier's as well as one in Cosmopolitan.

On the strength of a hard winter's work, Williams, who lives on his farm in Connecticut, commutes to New York City and spends the summer at the family island in Maine, hopes to bring his wife, Mona Williams, namesake of the "best-dressed" Mona Williams, and two fine children, back to Carmel for a brief visit.

Henry has had two extended stays in Carmel, once about 1927 and again three years ago. His two brothers, Laidlaw Williams and Jesse Lynch Williams, Jr., both make Carmel their home.

Enjoying sunny Arizona, which really is sunny, James and Mildred Gillingham and their son, Peter, are living on their ranch in the Canelo hills outside Elgin. Living now in an old adobe, they are building a new one alongside. They have been in Arizona for several months since they left their Carmel Point home. Things archeological, besides horseback riding, occupy their time.

Remember the article on Wilfred Wood, deep sea diver, in The Pine Cone several months ago? Wood, returning to San Francisco recently to pursue his profession, was engaged in the tragic search for the two children drown by their mother not long ago in San Francisco bay.

Newspaper photographs showed Wood about to do his stuff on the bottom of the bay. His father and mother live in Carmel and are building a home next door to the Charles Sayers on Santa Rita.

Wood has been on various salvage jobs, including the tanker Buck and the Ohioan, in the Golden Gate, and hopes to find other salvage worlds to conquer when he obtains sufficient backing.

Women's League Bridge Feb. 3rd

Just to show that they know how to have fun as well as to study weighty subjects, the Monterey League of Women Voters will appear in a new role Friday, Feb. 3, as hostesses at a huge card party to be held at the Mission Ranch club at 2 o'clock. A committee under the chairmanship of Miss Orre B. Haseltine is already busy with arrangements which will assure the social success of the affair, and another committee, headed by Miss Ruth Huntington, is seeing to the distribution of tickets throughout the county.

League women are busy women, and sometimes feel that they do not have sufficient opportunity to mingle socially with their friends, both inside and outside the League. So this big mid-winter affair is designed to give them a chance to "have fun"; to put aside study for an afternoon and be frivolous. The secondary purpose of the party is to secure additional funds to carry on League work.

There will be prizes for the players, and tea will be served at the close of the afternoon. The setting will be very "partified", as the committee is devoting special attention to floral and other decorations. There will be tables for bridge, and in another room, other games for those who do not play bridge. Chinese checkers, this year's "rage," has been promised as one of the attractions. Guests who cannot come early in the afternoon for the full session will be welcomed at the tea hour.

Arrangements are being made to entertain at least 200 women from all over the county.

Carmel members of the committee on arrangements, in addition to Miss Haseltine and Miss Huntington, are Mrs. Joseph G. Hooper, Miss Clara G. Hinds, Mrs. L. O. Kellogg and Mrs. Fenton Grigsby.

The League will hold its first study meeting of February next Thursday afternoon, the day before the card party. It will be at the home of Mrs. Louis C. Ralston, Lincoln and Santa Lucia, at 2 o'clock, and will be devoted to health insurance.

Three Days Left for Getting Auto Plates

Car owners are warned that only three days remain to obtain license plates at the Monterey office in the chamber of commerce building.

The office will be open Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Thereafter plates may be obtained at Salinas until Feb. 4, when registration closes for the state. After that date the penalty is double the license fee.

SAN FRANCISCO RATES SECOND

San Francisco ranks second only to New York in value of waterborne commerce.

Chess Club Presents Horowitz, Expert

Chess players may take part for a $1 fee and kibitzers are invited to look on at 50 cents per when the Carmel Chess Club presents I. A. Horowitz, an outstanding expert in the game in this country, who will give an exhibition of simultaneous play in Pine Inn tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

It is announced that Horowitz will play all comers, and everyone interested in the game is invited to attend as a player or onlooker, players bringing their own chessmen, of course.

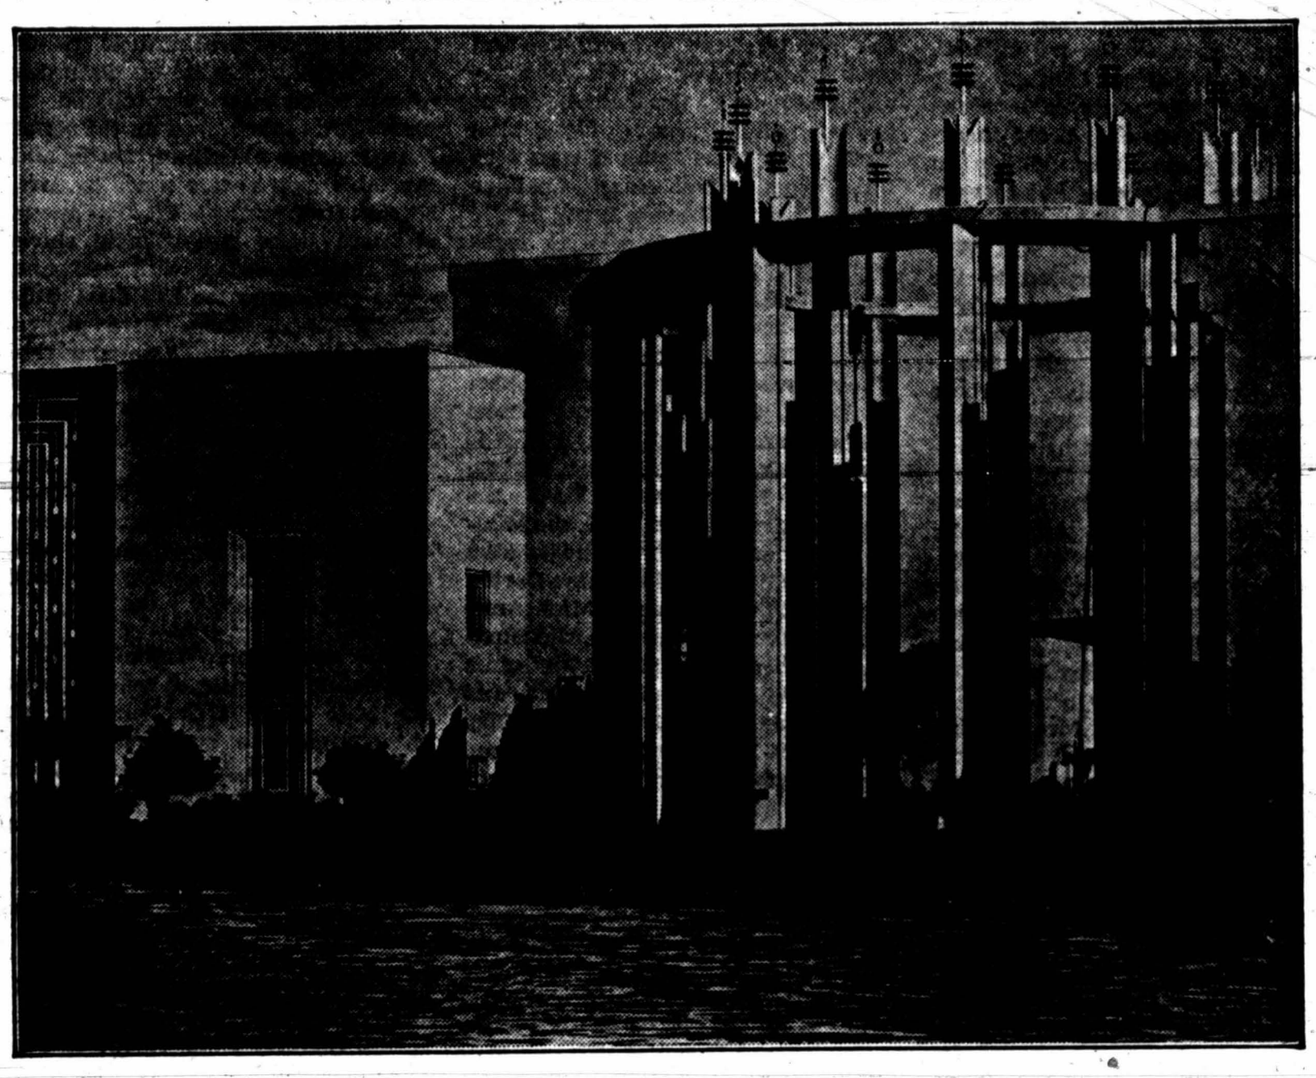
TREASURE ISLAND AGLOW AT NIGHT



The "magic city" that is the setting for the California World's Fair more than ever appears to be a city "afloat on San Francisco Bay" when the million dollar illumination perfected by General Electric Co. engineers is turned on at night. Here are the courts and towers as viewed from nearby Yerba Buena island. Many of the exhibit palace walls and towers, appearing white in this picture, are actually bathed in many pastel hues.

ALL SAINTS' CHOIR BOYS ENJOY SAN FRANCISCO TRIP AS REWARD

The choir boys of All Saints' Church in Carmel have been so faithful in their attendance at services and choir rehearsals that, as a reward, their rector, the Reverend Carel J. Hulsewé gave them a week-end trip to San Francisco. Assisting Mr. Hulsewé in driving and caring for the boys were Bill Yerkes and Homer R. Levinson.

The group left Carmel on Saturday morning and motored to San Francisco in two cars. Upon arrival in the city they made Fleishhacker Zoo their first destination.

Next on the program was a trip across the Golden Gate Bridge. This trip afforded the boys an excellent view of the city and the Marin shore and they were also greately interested in an airplane which was skywriting overhead.

Returning across the bridge, the boys were driven to the Steinhart Aquarium in Golden Gate Park. They were lucky enough to arrive just as the seals in the outdoor pool were being fed. For some of the boys, I am sure this was the highlight of the trip.

The party stayed at the Hotel Stewart and had their meals at the Golden Pheasant, where apparently some of the boys met a finger bowl face to face for the first time.

After dinner came a visit to the Golden Gate Theater, where a fine vaudeville performance, in addition to a moving picture, gave the boys a real treat.

The early part of Sunday morning was spent in touring the city from the Coit Tower to Twin Peaks. The party then attended services at Grace Cathedral, where the boys had a chance to hear the fine Cathedral choir.

To the great delight of the entire party, we were joined for lunch by Mr. Gale, who is both a vestryman at All Saints and a teacher at Sunset school.

After lunch we drove across the Bay Bridge, past the site of the Golden Gate International Exposition, through Oakland and out to the University of California. After touring the campus the party motored home along the east side of the bay, arriving in Carmel full of happy memories of a delightful trip.

The 11 choir boys who enjoyed the trip were: Gail Fraties, Bill Briner, Stanley Ewig, Daniel Bell, Bill Wishart, Edgar Hoffman, Dick Rohr, Baird Bardarson, Fennimore Bradley, Bill Goss and Dick Uzzell.

New Big Sur Bridge Scheduled by State

Highway construction and a new bridge over the Sur river at Big Sur are scheduled improvements by the state during the next two years, according to the budget presented to the Governor of California this week.

The amount of $51,500 was set for the bridge and an additional $80,000 for realignment and widening of the coast highway southward of Big Sur to the county line. No money is being apportioned for realignment of the narrow and winding highway south from San Simeon to San Luis Obispo.

Toro Creek bridge at $53,400 in San Luis Obispo county is also listed, with $12,000 for the San Benito bridge and $314,000 for the Sargent overhead.

Altogether $1,171,200 is slated for Monterey county.

FATHER OF DOUG ROGERS DIES IN PACIFIC GROVE

Ovid H. Rogers, 62, Pacific Grove, died recently, apparently the victim of a heart attack. He was the father of Douglas Rogers, former Carmel policeman. Rogers was driving home alone from Salinas when he drove off the road and struck a pole near the Salinas river bridge.

Usigli Again for Bach Festival

Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous announced this week from San Jose that they have been able to re-engage Gastone Usigli as conductor for Carmel's Fifth Annual Bach Festival, which will open on July 17. Miss Denny and Miss Watrous feel that the festival is most fortunate to have so capable and outstanding a conductor, whose reputation has been growing with his altogether exceptional conducting of his large orchestra in Los Angeles.

It is expected that hundreds of visitors to the San Francisco Fair will find their way to Carmel during the Bach Festival.

Choral rehearsals are starting under Madeline Curry, who will be one of the assistant choral conductors of the Bach Festival. All who are interested in singing in the Bach Festival chorus should meet with Miss Curry and her adult education choral group on Monday nights in the music room of the Sunset school auditorium at 7:30.

Animals Great Help in Medicine

By DR. JOHN C. SHARP

We are often asked questions about the use of animals in the research laboratories where most of the medical discoveries, so valuable to mankind, are worked out. As a matter of fact, a number of years ago some research workers in Canada were studying diabetes. They finally prepared, after a long period of experimental work, a substance they called 'Insulin' 'that they thought would be of value in treating this serious disease. What was the next step? Should they use this new product on human paients, not knowing the proper dose, or the dangers that overdosage might cause? They knew they had a very potent substance but they did not know how much to use, or how often it should be given or the best way to get this new substance into the system. Instead of experimenting on human beings they used the new products on animals. Later, when insulin was given to human beings the research workers knew, from their animal experiments, that they had a very valuable remedy, but one that had to be used with great care or serious effects would result. They had learned that it should be given by injection under the skin and also the proper dose and how to overcome an overdose. Today, because of insulin and the animal experiments and tests that made its use safe, patients with diabetes can enjoy practically a normal diet, continue their usual vocations and be spared from serious symptoms and premature death.

Diphtheria was a very serious disease with a high death rate until diphtheria antitoxin was discovered. By the use of antitoxin early in the disease, the great majority of patients now recover. The antitoxin for this disease could not be produced without laboratory animals and without animal tests the product could not be properly standardized. In other words, it would not be possible to find out how much antitoxin should be given or whether the product had been properly prepared, unless each batch had been tested on laboratory animals bfore being released for use.

All through the dark ages, medical progress was at a standstill. The physicians of that period were willing to treat human ailments without making any effort to find out why the disease developed. The spirit of scientific questioning into the whys and wherefores of disease was absent. More has been learned in the past 75 years about the human body and its diseases than in all the period of recorded history before that time. Most of this progress has been possible because research workers take nothing for granted. They test out new products and for these tests they use laboratory animals rather than human beings. Without these animals, we would not have the modern weapons to combat such diseases as typhoid fever, scarlet fever, rabies, smallpox, lockjaw, pellagra and pneumonia, to mention only a few.

Much of the present knowledge about cancer, infantile paralysis, high blood pressure, vitamins and internal gland products has been gained as the result of long continued experimental study in reseaerch laboratories where animals are available. The men and women working on these problems are educated people with a humane point of view. Animals are given anesthesia before tests are made. These laboratories are open to inspection at all times to humane society officials and the public can rest assured that the animals are well cared for and properly treated.

The California Society for the Promotion of Medical Research has as its directors and memebers the presidents of all of the universities in the state, leading Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish church officials, and others who are interested in human welfare and man's never-ending fight to combat sickness and postpone death. This society urges every voter in California to study very carefully an initiative measure that will be on the November ballot. This measure (Number 2 on the ballot), in the opinion of the Society, is so worded that if passed by the people, it could seriously interfere with further medical research in this state.

H. G. Wells Answered As Teachers' Critic

A charge by H. G. Wells, noted English author, that "two-thirds of the teaching profession is damp and rotten inside" is answered by President Robert Gordon Sproul of the University of California in the current issue of The Rotarian, with the statement that, 'Mr. Wells is not to be taken too literally."

"He has drawn a caricature to illustrate his contention that educational systems and those administering them are not yet perfect," Dr. Sproul wrote. "The value of a caricature is not determined by the accuracy of its delineations but by the pertinence of its exaggerations. That the exaggerations in this instance are pertinent cannot be denied.

"I am inclined to believe, however, that Mr. Wells' method of attack is more appropriate to England than it is to the United States. England is an old country. It has the reputation of making haste slowly, of looking upon its faults philosophically and of waiting for them to die out of their own inanition. Perhaps in England it is necessary to exaggerate in order to bring action.

"The United States, on the contrary, is a relatively young country. It has not quite outgrown the pioneer idea that old houses and old land may be blithely abandoned if they have become two-thirds damp and rotten, because there is always material for a new house and new land to build upon just over the horizon.

Population Jump May Bring Famine

Before any nation or people undertake to increase the population through mass marriages or any other device, it should determine whether the nation's food resources can accommodate such increase, or disaster may result. This was stated by Dr. Alfred C. Reed, professor of tropical medicine in the University of California.

" The time is past when scientific thought can accept size as a criterion of desirability in any biological unit, whether it be a single human or other animal, or whether it be an institution of an industrial, charitable, educational or other sort, or whether it be a nation or a population," Dr. Reed said.

"The limits of ability of a certain area to furnish food should be established even if roughly, and an estimate made of the optimum and maximum population possible to be fed in a certain area before wholesale methods are introduced which are certain to lead to increased population, with the social and political hazards which always attend such increase. It must be considered whether population increase should and can be controlled by some artificial means before an indiscriminate and wholesale increase is made certain by direct interference with one of nature's great balances which lies in the food supply.

"It is undoubtedly true that potentialities of food supply can be increased and further developed in most parts of the world. Such a development would of course need scientific control to secure proper dietary balance. But it is equally true that such studies of supply should precede increase of demand by any measures certain to lead to increased population."

Reptilian Remains Found In Arizona

Traces of a reptilian animal species "which may be near to the ancestry of the dinosaurs and which likewise may be the first specimens of bi-pedaled animals on the continent," have been discovered by investigators of the University of California Museum of Paleontology.

The discovery was made by accident in a pavement-like sandstone formation in the vicinity of the Great Meteor Crater in Arizona, by a party under the direction of Dr. Charles L. Camp, director of the museum. The surrounding territory had been explored before for fossil remains, but had yielded no bones until the University party visited it this summer.

The footprints in the sandstone were identified as those of a reptile-like creature which had left many such distinguishing marks in European fossil fields. Despite these striking evidences of its existence, however, no fossil specimen has ever been found which can be positively identified as belonging to this reptile. The footprints found by the Camp party ranged from ½ to 11 inches in length.

The bi-pedal characteristics are clearly shown in the prints, the hind feet being particularly prominent, with their bottoms ridged and otherwise conformed to prevent slipping in the mud, and the prints of the forefeet being smaller than the hind-feet.

The expedition also unearthed other rare dinosaur specimens in the rock formations in the vicinity of Kayenta, northern Arizona. At Rough Rock ,in the same state, they viewed a new kind of fossil reptile with plates on its body, which had been discovered by the keeper of a trading post.

Jemez Canyon in New Mexico yielded many reptile and amphibian specimens.

BARBARA WINSLOW MAKING RECOVERY

Barbara Winslow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Winslow, is making a satisfactory recovery this week from an ailment from which she had been suffering during her recent tennis tour. On the basis of her play, and in spite of her illness, she gained fourth position among the nation's women tennis players this year.

Auto tourists taking part in the great trek westward to the World's Fair on Treasure Island will find tepees available in auto camps to add to the romance of the journey.

STANDOUTS IN "KIND LADY"

Gordon Knoles, as Henry Abbott, shares with Marion Todd, Mary Herries, the leading roles in "Kind Lady." Shown with Knoles is Georganna Good, as Ada, who does wonders with this "bit" part. "Kind Lady" is playing at the Filmarte this evening and until Sunday night.

New Drug Takes Place of Morphine

The development of a new drug which apparently has many of the pain-relieving properties of morphine and codeine, but appears to lack some of the addiction factors of the former, is announced by the pharmacy laboratories of the University of California.

It is stated that the experimental studies on "DNPM" are of such interest that the drug deserves careful clinical trial as a possible substitute for morphine.

The new drug is a combination of dinitrophenol, the fever-producing drug, recently used with unfortunate results in the uncontrolled treatment of obesity, and morphine. Strikingly the new drug which is called Dinitrophenylmorphine, or "DNPM", has none of the action of dinitrophenol, but is much more like codeine and morphine.

Experiments on animals and normal human subjects indicate that the drug has pain relieving properties and respiratory effects somewhat similar to morphine and greater than codeine. Animal experimentation also suggests that it may have less addiction effect than morphine. But the university workers are careful to point out that any chemical which produces a feeling of well being and relief from pain, may become an addiction drug in a person desiring to escape from an unpleasant health environment.

A great, statewide fiesta will lead up to the opening of the 1939 California World's Fair next February.

Study of Healthy Teeth Is Urged

Research dealing with the cause of tooth decay might progress further and more rapidly if individuals were studied who are now and who have been immune from such decay, or dental caries, as this condition is called. So stated Dr. John A. Marshall, of the College of Dentistry, University of California.

Caries immune individuals "have something the rest of us lack," Dr. Marshall said. "They should come forward and volunteer for tests, which would include a complete mouth examination, X-ray pictures of skeletal development and of tooth formation, metabolism tests and chemical and bacteriological analysis of saliva and blood.

"Neglected decay may be of no consequence, but usually the least serious complication is the loss of a tooth or two," Dr. Marshall said. "From then on, the effects pile up to an astounding degree. I might attempt to paraphrase a well known jingle in this regard.

"For the want of a tooth, the occlusion is lost. For the want of occlusion, chewing is lost. For the want of chewing, digestion is lost. For the want of digestion, good health is lost. And all for the want of a good, sound tooth."

Chinese Dragons to be "Active" at S. F. Fair

Two monstrous Chinese dragons, one of gold silk, the other of silver, and each 400 feet long, have arrived in San Francisco. They were unpacked from 80 separate crates, assembled and taken to Treasure Island.

The dragons, each requiring 200 strong men to carry them, will be part of the elaborate Oriental display in the Chinese concession on the Gayway during the Exposition. Weaving and designing of the dragons has been going on several months in China with hundreds of skilled craftsmen doing the work.

"Streets of the World" will be a $2,225,000 concession at the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

Feathered Friends at Home on Fair Island

Birds have discovered Treasure Island! Long before the paying guests arrive, the feathered flocks made themselves at home at the Golden Gate International Exposition.

In the beginning, when the first trees and shrubs were set out, a few curious sparrows went over to investigate the strange new land risen out of the sea. They must have told it to the robins who probably relayed it to the meadow larks who in turn caroled the tidings to the humming birds.

"Warm sunshine, plenty of honied flowers, cool water and trees to nest in," word went around in the bird-world.

Now they're there in thousands.
